

Food from Mother Earth and Collective Tremembé Knowledge

A Seminar with MATEUS TREMEMBÉ

APRIL

28

Monday

You're warmly invited to a free in-person gathering to connect around Indigenous food sovereignty and climate justice.

Mateus Tremembé is a young Indigenous leader from the Tremembé da Barra do Mundaú Indigenous Lands, in the municipality of Itapipoca, Ceará, Brazil. He is an agroecological farmer, an agronomy student at the University of International Integration of Afro-Brazilian Portuguese-Speaking Countries (UNILAB), and he coordinates of Just Transitions in Food Systems Network and the Tremembé Climate Project. (Tremembé is pronounced: Trem-mem-bay.)

Please
Register Here
for Free:

Light refreshments will be provided

TIME & LOCATION

Monday, April 28th
1-3 pm

Wampum Learning Lodge

1137 Western Rd, Suite 1200,
London, ON N6G 1G7

Hosted by the Geography and Environment EDID Committee and Indigenous Studies with support from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council and the Canada Research Chairs Program.